I don't think BAT can pass Senate (& it's bad policy), but if they drop it, that's a $1.2 trillion hole they need to fill.

I don't think it is either, but it's a major part of House plan to make tax reform revenue neutral. They need something else.

That having been said I hope they drop the BAT & use something else to make it deficit neutral.

It needs to be deficit neutral if they are going to pass it using reconciliation, the only way they can pass it w/o Dems.

And this would be a response to doubt number four
On page 30, finally, he rejects it as a "grave temptation" to maintain that it is impossible for sinful man to observe the holy law of God, and therefore to want to "decide for himself what is good and what is evil" instead of invoking the grace that God always grants
And this would be a response to the fifth doubt

"When you look at the plan that's taking shape now, using comprehensive tax reform as a means to tax imports from countries that we have a trade deficit from, like Mexico. If you tax that $50 billion at 20 percent of imports – which is by the way a practice that 160 other countries do – right now our country's policy is to tax exports and let imports flow freely in, which is ridiculous. By doing it that we can do $10 billion a year and easily pay for the wall just through that mechanism alone. That's really going to provide the funding."

This quote tends to undermine the interpretation of Silence as a tale of spiritual downfall. books.google.com/books?id=lttr8...

Here it is helpful to quote Endo himself at length:

Silence contains various themes, and it received various interpretations and analyses from the critics. But to me the most meaningful thing in the novel is the change in the hero's image of Christ. The hero, a foreigner, believed in a Jesus of majesty and power, an orderly Jesus who was even governed by order. This was the image conceived by Western artists. The novel's hero brought this image with him to Japan, and from that strong face of Christ he gained courage to evangelize.

After suffering many trials and frustrations, however, he was caught at last and brought before the Fumie (picture of Christ which Christians were ordered to step on). Standing there he saw an image of Christ he had never seen before, an image shaped by Japanese hands. It was not the orderly, European, but the worn out face of a Christ suffering as we suffer.

In today's Casa Santa Marta sermon Pope Francis praises St. John the Baptist's firm preaching against adultery, urges Priests to do the same

He preached forcefully, he said some ugly things to the Pharisees, to the doctors of the law, to the priests: he didn't say to them: "But dear friends, behave yourselves!" No. He said to them simply: "You, race of vipers!" He didn't use nuance. Because they approached in order to inspect him and to see him, but never with open hearts: "Race of vipers!" He risked his life, yes, but he was faithful. Then to Herod, to his face, he said, "Adulterer! It is not licit for you to live this way, adulterer!" To his face! But it is certain that if a pastor today said in the Sunday homily: "Among you there are some who are a race of vipers, and there are many adulterers," certainly the Bishop would receive disconcerting letters: "But send away this pastor who insults us." And he insulted them. Why? Because he was faithful to his vocation and to the truth.

How do you define ethnicity vs. race? Keep in mind meaning of ethnos, blueletterbible.org/faq/lexicon/ ἔθνος, -ου, τό; 1. a multitude (whether of men or of beasts) associated or living together; a company, troop, swarm: ἔθνος ἑταίρων, ἔθνος Ἀχαιῶν, ἔθνος λαός, Hom. II; ἔθνος μελισσῶν, 2, 57; μυῶν ἔθνη, lb. 469. 2. a multitude of individuals of the same nature or genus, (τό ἔθνος τὸ θῆλυ ἢ τὸ ἀρρεν, Xen. oec. 7, 26): πᾶν ἔθνος ἀνθρώπων, the human race, Acts xvii. 26 [but this seems to belong under the next head]. 3. race, nation: Mt. xxi. 43; Acts x. 35, etc.; ἔθνος ἐν ἔθνοις, Mt. xxiv. 7; Mk. xiii. 8; οἱ Ἀρχαῖοι, οἱ βασιλεῖς τῶν ἑθνῶν, Mt. xx. 25; Lk. xxi. 25; used [in the sing.] of the Jewish people, Lk. vii. 5; xxiii. 2; Jn. xi. 48, 50-53; xviii. 30; Acts x. 22; xxiv. 2 (9), 10; xxvi. 4; xxviii. 18. 4.
